

PEARS AND SOWERS FAILED.

Omaha's Hard Hitters Do Up a Pair of Ambitious Kansas City Pitchers.

EITELJORG'S SUCCESS ON THE KAW.

Eddie's Scandinavian Arm Too Much for the Blues—Lincoln Pulls Out Another Game in the Ninth.

Omaha, 13; Kansas City 1. Lincoln, 5; Denver, 4. Minneapolis, 3; St. Paul, 4. Milwaukee—No game; rain.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—As the game today was the last of the Omaha series a large crowd, probably twenty-five hundred or more was out to see it. The more the pity that a ball game was not there to be seen. Omaha was there as brisk as a dog with a new brass collar, and played its part of the game right up to the hands from start to finish. If Kansas City had been in the same humor a very pretty game might have been seen. Instead of that, after Pears was knocked out of the box and Sowers had made the wildest throw on record, Omaha getting six runs in the meantime, the Blues quit trying to play ball. They played for rain, for aces, for an eclipse, for a earthquake, or for anything else that would stop a game of ball.

In the fourth inning it looked for a minute or two as if they were on top. It rained and Omaha called time, but the weather was simply "playing horse" itself and in a very few minutes Emslie had called the boys back to the field. Pickett was touched up for a $5 fine for getting too gay and throwing the ball out in the field. Another time the ball was thrown out to Foster, who immediately turned his back and meandered out toward the field looking for it. "Hitler" Carpenter and Pickett went out to help find it, but when Dan Stearns and Ginnison started out Emslie called a halt. If he didn't play ball the game would be over in Omaha.

Shannon came to the bat in the fourth inning and hit at the ball as if he were mowing grass. He finally got an easy out to Manning. The manager put out his foot, stopped it, toyed with it for a while, and tossed it up and down.

Colonel Shannon looked as if he was making a desperate effort to get to first base, but an experienced eye, by noticing closely, would have seen that he was going out and coming down in the same place. As a matter of fact, he would have made much more progress had he followed the example of the parrot, crawling and journeyed backward.

The next man at bat was "Uncle Poppy" Jimmy Donnelly. He was given a little chance to do anything, but sent four balls anywhere but across the plate. Jimmy took his.

Halligan was the next man. Sowers pitched a ball somewhere over by the players' bench.

"One ball," said Emslie. "I struck at that ball," said Halligan, who observed the clouds getting blacker and blacker.

"No, you didn't strike at it," said the umpire. "Yes, I struck at her. Of course I did. I know when I strike at a ball. Of course I do."

Here the flow of conversation was stopped by Sowers, who passed a ball several yards out of Mr. Halligan's reach. Around came the ball, however, and on went Mr. Halligan's conversation.

After the fifth inning, however, Omaha continued to play the game, and Kansas City couldn't get within reach of victory. Score:

KANSAS CITY. AB. R. H. B. SO. A. E.

Manning, 2b..... 4 0 1 0 2 5 0

Hoover, rf..... 4 0 1 0 2 0 0

Smith, 1b..... 3 0 1 0 0 0 0

McClure, 3b..... 3 0 1 0 0 0 0

Pearson, ss..... 3 0 1 0 0 0 0

Carpenter, 2b..... 4 0 1 0 0 0 0

Ginnison, cf..... 3 0 1 0 0 0 0

Pears, p..... 1 0 0 0 1 0 2

Sowers, p..... 3 0 1 0 1 0 2

Total..... 30 1 6 4 21 13

OMAHA. AB. R. H. B. SO. A. E.

Shannon, 2b..... 6 3 1 0 2 0 0

Donnelly, 3b..... 4 3 1 0 2 0 0

Halligan, rf..... 3 1 2 0 0 0 0

McClure, 1b..... 3 1 2 0 0 0 0

Twitwell, lf..... 4 2 1 1 0 0 0

Griffin, cf..... 2 1 0 1 0 0 0

Wells, ss..... 3 1 0 1 0 0 0

McClure, 1b..... 3 0 1 0 1 0 0

Eiteljorg, p..... 5 1 0 0 0 0 0

Total..... 30 13 13 3 7 13

SCORE BY INNINGS.

KANSAS CITY..... 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1

Omaha..... 3 0 0 1 3 1 2—13

SUMMARY.

Earned runs: Omaha, 4; Kansas City, 1.

Three-base hits: Shannon, Halligan, Stearns; two-base hits: Shannon, 1; Double play: McClure, 1; Errors: Shannon, 1; Pears, 1; Sowers, 1; Eiteljorg, 1.

Hit by pitched ball: Griffin, Wells, Struck out: By Sowers, 1; Eiteljorg, 1. One hour and forty minutes. Umpire: Emslie.

OTHER WESTERN GAMES.

Lincoln Pulls Out Another Game in the Ninth Inning.

CHASED OUT BY A HURRICANE.

Grand Stand at Latonia Depopulated by the Terrible Storm.

THRILLING SCENES DURING THE RAIN.

Forty-Mile-an-Hour Wind Drove Sheets of Water Through the Crowds—Results of the Races.

CINCINNATI, O., June 3.—At noon today the weather was warm and clear. Over six thousand people were at Latonia when the racing began. At that hour a dark storm cloud gathered on the northwestern horizon. Driven by a brisk easterly wind, it came on, displaying the ominous olive green color with heavy fringes in front peculiar to such storms.

The wind struck the grand stand at Latonia, in which were 3,000 people, one-third of them women. Then came the rain, first in streams and afterwards in sheets. Horse sheds outside of the race course were picked up and strewn clear across the track, 300 yards away. The iron anatomy of the grand stand cracked.

The blinding sheets of water, driven by a forty-mile-an-hour hurricane, drenched everybody.

A push to the center of the grand stand did not help matters. The wind toppled the upper seats over and rolled them toward the front. Amid screams of women a wild rush was made for the broad central stairway that leads to the piazza in front of the stand. Brave men rushed into the crazy crowds and averted a calamity, and the crowd went down safely to shelter under the stand.

Many coaches entered the track with a single bound and ran across the track in the storm. Another woman is reported to have thrown her baby over the railing into the grass afterwards picking it up unharmed. Half an hour later the wet crowd was sitting on the moist benches watching the races. No casualties have been reported. The racing bulletin:

First race, selling, one mile and seventy furlongs. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Second race, selling, one mile and twenty furlongs. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Third race, selling, one mile and twenty furlongs. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Fourth race, selling, one mile and twenty furlongs. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Fifth race, selling, one mile and twenty furlongs. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

SIXTH RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

SEVENTH RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

EIGHTH RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

NINTH RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

TENTH RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

ELEVENTH RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Twelfth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Thirteenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Fourteenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Fifteenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Sixteenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Seventeenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Eighteenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Nineteenth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Twentieth RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Twenty-first RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

Twenty-second RACE. The race was won by the close of the mile and had driven everybody out of the grand stand. The winner was a colt from Woodvale second and a length and a half in front of Royal Garter third. Time: 1:24.

GRANT STATUE AT CALENA.

Monument Unveiled in the Presence of Many Thousand People.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS FROM ABROAD.

Hon. Channey M. Depew Delivers the Oration—Old Landmarks in the City the Center of Attraction.

CALENA, Ill., June 3.—This city is today crowded with people assembled to do honor to the memory of General Grant. The occasion is the unveiling of a monument to him presented to his old home by H. H. Kohlman of Chicago. From all directions crowds of people are pouring into the city. The city is in gay apparel, the main thoroughfare being a panorama of red, white and blue. Arches upon the principal crossings and mottoes, betokening the reverence in which the name of the hero of Appomattox is held by his old neighbors, are prominently displayed.

The massive old court house in which Captain Grant presided at the court martial held in Calena to raise volunteers is gay with garlands. The First Methodist church, in which the hero worshiped, is also elaborately decorated, and the pew in which he sat is draped with bunting. The modest mansion presented to him by the citizens of Calena is also gay with bunting. The hero's home is in the center of the city. The old building in which was located the leather store of Jesse R. Grant, the hero's father, is also gayly decorated.

Visitors clustered about every landmark associated with the name of Grant, and the little park in the center of which stands the memorial.

The public schools in Dubuque, Freeport and other nearby towns were closed and the children of the city were sent to take part in the ceremonies. Business in Calena was entirely suspended.

Two trains from Chicago brought delegations of the Grand Army and distinguished citizens, among them Hon. Channey M. Depew, Governor of Illinois, ex-Governor of Wisconsin, General Nelson A. Miles, Judge Walter Gresham, Senator H. H. Kohlman, the donor of the statue, Senators Allison and Cullom, Congressman Henderson of Iowa and Judge Blodgett of the federal court.

The ceremonies of the day were marked by a parade, participated in by Grand Army veterans, visiting military and civic bodies and citizens. Gathered about the statue in the park the exercises commenced with a reading of the Declaration of Independence. A band from Fort Sheridan, after playing the "Hail to the Chief," sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." The exercises were then continued by the reading of a letter from the hero's mother, Mrs. Julia Grant, to the hero's father, General Grant, dated June 3, 1862.

Ex-Governor Depew then formally presented the statue to the city on behalf of the donors.

The statue was accepted in a brief address by Park Commissioner H. C. Clemens on behalf of the city.

He was followed by Hon. Channey M. Depew, who delivered the oration of the day, meeting with an enthusiastic reception. He said:

Thirty years ago your city of Calena numbered among its citizens a man so modest that he was little known in the community; a man so humble that his activities were not felt in your business. Three years later his name was known to the nation. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

GRANT STATUE AT CALENA.

Monument Unveiled in the Presence of Many Thousand People.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS FROM ABROAD.

Hon. Channey M. Depew Delivers the Oration—Old Landmarks in the City the Center of Attraction.

CALENA, Ill., June 3.—This city is today crowded with people assembled to do honor to the memory of General Grant. The occasion is the unveiling of a monument to him presented to his old home by H. H. Kohlman of Chicago. From all directions crowds of people are pouring into the city. The city is in gay apparel, the main thoroughfare being a panorama of red, white and blue. Arches upon the principal crossings and mottoes, betokening the reverence in which the name of the hero of Appomattox is held by his old neighbors, are prominently displayed.

The massive old court house in which Captain Grant presided at the court martial held in Calena to raise volunteers is gay with garlands. The First Methodist church, in which the hero worshiped, is also elaborately decorated, and the pew in which he sat is draped with bunting. The modest mansion presented to him by the citizens of Calena is also gay with bunting. The hero's home is in the center of the city. The old building in which was located the leather store of Jesse R. Grant, the hero's father, is also gayly decorated.

Visitors clustered about every landmark associated with the name of Grant, and the little park in the center of which stands the memorial.

The public schools in Dubuque, Freeport and other nearby towns were closed and the children of the city were sent to take part in the ceremonies. Business in Calena was entirely suspended.

Two trains from Chicago brought delegations of the Grand Army and distinguished citizens, among them Hon. Channey M. Depew, Governor of Illinois, ex-Governor of Wisconsin, General Nelson A. Miles, Judge Walter Gresham, Senator H. H. Kohlman, the donor of the statue, Senators Allison and Cullom, Congressman Henderson of Iowa and Judge Blodgett of the federal court.

The ceremonies of the day were marked by a parade, participated in by Grand Army veterans, visiting military and civic bodies and citizens. Gathered about the statue in the park the exercises commenced with a reading of the Declaration of Independence. A band from Fort Sheridan, after playing the "Hail to the Chief," sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." The exercises were then continued by the reading of a letter from the hero's mother, Mrs. Julia Grant, to the hero's father, General Grant, dated June 3, 1862.

Ex-Governor Depew then formally presented the statue to the city on behalf of the donors.

The statue was accepted in a brief address by Park Commissioner H. C. Clemens on behalf of the city.

He was followed by Hon. Channey M. Depew, who delivered the oration of the day, meeting with an enthusiastic reception. He said:

Thirty years ago your city of Calena numbered among its citizens a man so modest that he was little known in the community; a man so humble that his activities were not felt in your business. Three years later his name was known to the nation. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

GRANT STATUE AT CALENA.

Monument Unveiled in the Presence of Many Thousand People.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS FROM ABROAD.

Hon. Channey M. Depew Delivers the Oration—Old Landmarks in the City the Center of Attraction.

CALENA, Ill., June 3.—This city is today crowded with people assembled to do honor to the memory of General Grant. The occasion is the unveiling of a monument to him presented to his old home by H. H. Kohlman of Chicago. From all directions crowds of people are pouring into the city. The city is in gay apparel, the main thoroughfare being a panorama of red, white and blue. Arches upon the principal crossings and mottoes, betokening the reverence in which the name of the hero of Appomattox is held by his old neighbors, are prominently displayed.

The massive old court house in which Captain Grant presided at the court martial held in Calena to raise volunteers is gay with garlands. The First Methodist church, in which the hero worshiped, is also elaborately decorated, and the pew in which he sat is draped with bunting. The modest mansion presented to him by the citizens of Calena is also gay with bunting. The hero's home is in the center of the city. The old building in which was located the leather store of Jesse R. Grant, the hero's father, is also gayly decorated.

Visitors clustered about every landmark associated with the name of Grant, and the little park in the center of which stands the memorial.

The public schools in Dubuque, Freeport and other nearby towns were closed and the children of the city were sent to take part in the ceremonies. Business in Calena was entirely suspended.

Two trains from Chicago brought delegations of the Grand Army and distinguished citizens, among them Hon. Channey M. Depew, Governor of Illinois, ex-Governor of Wisconsin, General Nelson A. Miles, Judge Walter Gresham, Senator H. H. Kohlman, the donor of the statue, Senators Allison and Cullom, Congressman Henderson of Iowa and Judge Blodgett of the federal court.

The ceremonies of the day were marked by a parade, participated in by Grand Army veterans, visiting military and civic bodies and citizens. Gathered about the statue in the park the exercises commenced with a reading of the Declaration of Independence. A band from Fort Sheridan, after playing the "Hail to the Chief," sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." The exercises were then continued by the reading of a letter from the hero's mother, Mrs. Julia Grant, to the hero's father, General Grant, dated June 3, 1862.

Ex-Governor Depew then formally presented the statue to the city on behalf of the donors.

The statue was accepted in a brief address by Park Commissioner H. C. Clemens on behalf of the city.

He was followed by Hon. Channey M. Depew, who delivered the oration of the day, meeting with an enthusiastic reception. He said:

Thirty years ago your city of Calena numbered among its citizens a man so modest that he was little known in the community; a man so humble that his activities were not felt in your business. Three years later his name was known to the nation. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people. He was a man of every commercial venture, and of every constructive enterprise in the country were his efforts directed to the benefit of the people.

He was a man